Exercise

Cognition: the ability to recognize an urgent crisis situation

1. In a crisis situation, can you recognize situations that are important but can be put off from those that are urgent?

Activity 1

Imagine a crisis situation (or a picture of a crisis situation can be given) in which you are intervening or have already intervened. Write on a piece of paper a list of 10 situations that have occurred in it (what you can see in the picture if a picture has already been given) and rank them from most urgent to least urgent. You should write a short justification for your ranking of each one.
